Advice to Law Makers.

Pursuant to the provisions of the constitution the eighteenth session of the Nevada Legislature will be called to order on next Monday. There are many matters looking to the welfare of the State and our people to be considered. Appropriations for the support of the State Government and State institutions must be in the regular course of business be provided for; laws passed protecting the interests as well as advancing those in every county in the State. The election of a United States Senator will be an important event, and there are other matters that will come up for consideration.

The prevailing hard times, mainly brought about by the low price of silver and the existing conditions of our principal industry, mining, necessitates economy and careful management in public affairs. It is not economy, however, to cripple the State institutions by low and insufficient appropriations, and the wise thing to do is for the members, nearly all of whom are practical business men, to visit these institutions, inquire into the expenses and requirements and then act for the best interests of the taxpayer and with a view of making each institution compare favorably with similar institutions of other States.

Thus far the management of each institution has been of a progressive character and the State has reason to be proud of her substantial buildings and special advantages each public institution affords. It is anticipated that the coming session will be an important one for the State, and it is hoped that the result will be all that the people expect.—Journal.

It now turns out that Chairman McLaughlin of California, who wrote that famous letter to McKinley, assuring him that anything he did would be alright, turns out to be the party who is known in San Francisco as the "man with the telephonic hat." He was probably merely experimenting a little to see if the eastern connection with his sombrero was in good working order.

Salinas Index: In addressing a letter to Assemblyman Landsborough of Sacramento, who has now five indictments standing against him for forgery, fraudulent conduct, etc., the Fresno "Republican" thinks that it would be a delicate courtesy to drop the prefix "Honorable" from his name. Irony should be avoided, so far as possible in addressing a letter.

Ex-Governor Altgeld's address, which he was prevented from delivering by the Republicans of the Illinois legislature, has been published, and it breathes such a lofty spirit of conciliation that it has made the bores who administered the insult hang their heads in shame.

Spain is trying to raise a hundred million dollars to carry on the war in Cuba, but none of the European money lenders take any stock in the securities. It is said that the Prime Minister of Spain having heard that Jake Kluge, of this city, once loaned $60 on a galvanized watch is advertising to ascertain his post office address.

An Oakland girl refused to marry a man who came to the scene of the proposed ceremony in a blue shirt and who owed the baker for the wedding cake. Many a man wedded in a white shirt has turned out a poor husband, but a man who stands off the baker for the cake is good to steer clear of.

In Sacramento warrants have been issued for bogus names on the pay roll of the Assembly. The law makers are now trying to ascertain who got the money.

It is said that Col. Mazuma, who visited Sacramento for a few days to watch legislation has decided to establish headquarters near the Oregon legislature.

From the drift of the testimony given in the case of J. J. Cooney, the Notary accused of perjury, it would look as if the jail doors were open in the Fair case.

When Bryan notices the worn and weary look in the face of McKinley as he stands off the office seekers, he thanks God that he only got a little over six million votes and wasn't elected.
